

ROLEYBUSHCARE

the Dieback Busters

Friday, 23 May 2014

Home » News » Beautiful photos of birds on Lake Ballard near Menzies

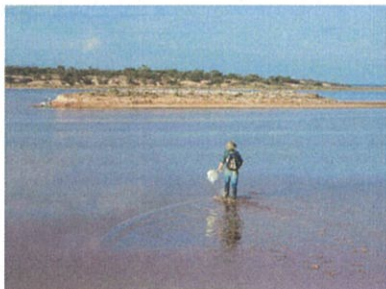

Search

HomeAbout UsContact UsDiebackBush ReservesBush TopicsProducts & ServicesNewsLinksGalleryEventsAdmin

Beautiful photos of birds on Lake Ballard near Menzies

The photos below are some of those that DPaW took recently of a colony of birds on Lake Ballard near Menzies. This lake is normally dry but the birds have flown from South Australia to take advantage of the good season. The photos may be of interest to any bird watchers in our group.

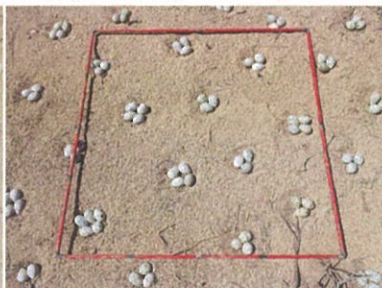

Many thanks to Reece Pedler who took these amazing photos and agreed to allow us to share them with Roleybushcare volunteers.

Several birds with partial breast band observed mating.

~10% of the nesting stilts had partial breastbands

Most clutches were completed or nearly so on 6th and 7th Feb, although evidence of some birds still laying

Admin

© Roleybushcare 2013