Plan your camping experience

For details about campgrounds, camping tips and booking online visit parkstay.dpaw.wa.gov.au.

When planning where to go, what to do and what to take visit parks.dpaw.wa.gov.au or download the Park Finder WA, CampingMate and Trails WA apps.

Keep in touch with the latest national park news by following Explore Parks WA on Facebook and subscribing to the Touring WA bi-monthly e-newsletter at parks.dpaw.wa.gov.au/connect.

When you share your experiences, photos and clips on social media use the hashtag #ExploreParksWA.

Daily entry fees and camping fees apply at many parks in the State. Entry fees are paid only on the day you arrive while camping fees are per person per night.

Purchase either a four-week Holiday Pass or an Annual All Parks Pass and save on park entry fees at shop.dpaw.wa.gov.au.

Camping opportunities have been made possible through the State Government's Parks for People initiative, a $21.05 million investment over four years funded by Royalties for Regions to improve and expand camping and associated visitor experiences in national parks and conservation reserves throughout WA.

Why not experience camping in nature?

Staying overnight in one of WA's national parks and reserves is about getting away from it all and connecting with nature.

From the southern forests to pristine beaches and the State's vast interior, there is a camping experience just right for you.

Parks are perfect places to relax and also for physical activity. Visiting a park is great for your health.

So go camping, tune in to nature, feel good and create lifetime memories with your family and friends.
