NATIONAL PARKS OF WESTERN AUSTRALIA

CAMPING AND GENERAL INFORMATION

There are seen to be three forms of camping appropriate in the National Parks of Western Australia:-

- * formal camping (sites for tents or caravans, etc.) where water, electricity, drainage, ablution and toilet facilities may be provided; or
- * discreet or vehicle based camping where each group or family is separated by natural features and where no facilities or at the best, temporary toilets exist; or
- * back pack camping by bushwalkers, climbers and canoeists where there are no roads or facilities.

The National Parks of Western Australia exist for everyone to share at all times, therefore, so that seasonal squatting or overcrowding in certain areas does not occur, the following regulations apply.

A person shall not:

- * camp in one National Park for more than twenty-eight nights in the same calendar year;
- * camp in one caravan park for more than twenty-eight nights in the same calendar year; or
- * camp in one camping area, not being a caravan park, for more than seven nights in the same calendar year.

It is important to remember that National Park Rangers not only maintain and protect your Parks but also help and advise visitors on what to see and where to go. For conservation and safety reasons, it is a good idea to let the Ranger know when and where you are going at all times, in any National Park.

Camp or Cooking Fires

Because of the high risk of bushfires in National Parks, the lighting of camp or cooking fires is strictly controlled by the Ranger in charge of each Park.

In areas of the State when the fire danger is forecast as very high or extreme, Bush Fires Board regulations determine that there shall be a total ban on all fires in the open. When visiting different Parks throughout the State, contact should be made with the District Ranger or the Local Authority, as specific fire bans may be imposed at the time.

Cooking fires in camping grounds or picnic areas may be lit only in fireplaces provided or as directed by signs. These same fires in wilderness areas must be contained in a receptacle. If intending to visit wilderness areas at Parks where there are no cooking facilities, it is suggested that you take a small portable stove or barbecue unit; it is safer and easier.

When fires are lit for cooking and camping purposes, the area surrounding the fire for a distance of 3 metres, must be completely free of all bush and other flammable material (including overhead).

Pets and Firearms

All native plants and wildlife are protected, therefore no firearms or domestic animals are permitted in National Parks. Please no cats or dogs.

Rubbish

Unless facilities are provided, all rubbish must be removed from the campsite at the completion of the visit and taken from the Park by the camper. This then leaves a natural and clean environment for next time.

Please do not wash dishes or use soaps and detergents in creeks or lakes. This reduces the possibility of pollution and therefore the destruction of aquatic flora and fauna.

REMEMBER - because the majority of Western Australian national parks are unmanned and campers have limited facilities, visitors are advised that it is always easier, safer and more comfortable to take along their own facilities.

CHARGES

It has long been held that those who use our National Parks and many of the specialised facilities and services, should pay for a share of the cost of providing them. It's a good feeling when visiting a National Park to know that you have the protection and services of a Ranger and that any fees collected are used for development, management and maintenance of future facilities.

FACILITATED NATIONAL PARKS - Some of the following National Parks are facilitated in that they have resident Rangers in charge who look after the Parks and service various facilities for visitors.

Other National Parks which may not be listed herewith, have limited facilities, no resident Ranger or are remote wilderness areas which possibly have no access for conventional vehicles. As it is illegal to use any vehicle off a road or track, within a National Park, it is suggested that before visiting other Parks you enquire to:-

Publicity Officer, National Parks Authority of W.A.
Hackett Drive, Nedlands, 6009 Telephone 386 8811

Regional Superintendent - South,
National Parks Authority, 63 Serpentine Road,
