Bushwalks in the South west

$14.95

CALM's latest book Bushwalks in the South-West will soon be 'walking off the shelves'.

Bushwalks in the South-West, contains walks that explore the jarrah, karri and tingle forests, and mountains and sea cliffs of the South-West, between Mandurah and Esperance.

The third in a series of walks books, it continues in the footsteps of the best-selling Family Walks in Perth Outdoors. It contains maps and descriptions of 49 walks, ranging in length from a few hundred metres to 15 kilometres.

Demand for Bushwalks in the South-West will be very strong, as there is currently nothing like it in the marketplace for this area, where most people from Perth spend their holidays. There are walks near most major towns such as Mandurah, Bunbury, Busselton, Dunsborough, Margaret River, Augusta, Pemberton, Walpole, Albany and Esperance all frequented by holiday makers.

attractions, such as the Tree Top Walk in Walpole's Valley of the Giants, to lesser known but equally stunning locations such as Mount Frankland National Park, which is featured on the book's front cover.
