PARKS AND WILDLIFE SERVICE

The badge features the species Calectasia cyanea, commonly known as the Blue Tinsel Lily. It is a threatened species confined to a single population over an area of only 0.02km within Torndirrup National Park on the south coast of Western Australia and is therefore listed as Critically Endangered under the Biodiversity Conservation Act 2016.

The species is a perennial woody herb identified by its stunning star-shaped blue to purple flowers with bright yellow anthers that turn orange-red with age. Flowers appear from June to November during Western Australia's traditional wildflower season, and they reproduce by germination from seed after fires. DBCA volunteers help to monitor and protect many threatened species across Western Australia.

We ask that you wear the badge proudly to spread the word about the environment and conservation and how everyone can assist by volunteering.
