

WILDLIFE CARERS' LIST

Following is a list of people who have volunteered their services to care for sick, injured or orphaned fauna. As the majority of these people are not known to us personally we cannot guarantee that they are available to accept all fauna at all times, or that they have the expertise required to handle all situations that may arise.

It must be remembered that they are all private individuals who dedicate their time, energy and expense to this cause, because like you they care.

HOW TO USE THE LIST

- Give several alternative carers and phone numbers.
- Don't always refer to the first person listed in the area - spread the load!
- Advise the "finder" to allow the phone to ring for a reasonable period as owners may be busy feeding or treating fauna.
- Give advice on attached "First Aid" sheet. Many problems can wait a few hours if necessary.
- Try to persuade "finder" to deliver. Volunteers give considerable time to wildlife already under their care and it can be difficult to leave them.

METROPOLITAN AREA

- Ask the "finder" their suburb.
- Consult the list of suburbs and locate the Area Code Number.
- Volunteers are listed under these Area Code Numbers.
- If it is necessary to find a volunteer in an adjoining area, use the map for easy reference.
- There are three listings - Birds, Mammals, Reptiles.
- Please note, the designation "Kangaroo" also includes Wallabies and Joeys.

BASIC FIRST-AID FOR ORPHANED AND/OR INJURED WILDLIFE

DO NOT FEED OR GIVE LIQUID without first seeking advice. (Incorrect techniques or wrong food could cause death.)

If animal has a broken limb or wing do not attempt to splint it. Keep it confined and quiet to prevent further damage. If a wing break is suspected, the wing tips only may be taped together with sticky tape to prevent flapping.

Bleeding may be controlled by applying gentle but firm pressure with the fingers. If bleeding recommences, apply a pressure bandage - place a wad of clean material or tissue over the area and hold in place with a bandage or tape.

Confine the animal or bird in an appropriate size box with soft cloths or tissues in the bottom (do not use cotton wool or cloths with loose cottons).

Alternatives: Basket, plant pot, bowl or crate.

Cover the box to avoid escape. Ensure air can still enter.

Very sick, badly injured and baby birds and animals need warmth. Use a heater, desk lamp with 60 Watt globe, hot water bottle wrapped in a towel and changed frequently, fry pan on low. Do not overheat. Joey kangaroos should be wrapped in a blanket or old jumper and kept warm. Do not apply heat to reptiles.

In hot weather - do not leave animal in the sun as dehydration will occur. Keep at a comfortable temperature.

With large birds such as swans, take care to immobilise the wings - never allow a bird to flap whilst in restraint.

Put box or animal in a quiet, safe place away from TV, dogs, cats and children. DO NOT allow children to play with them or take them to school. No wildlife is "friendly" or "tame" - but sick and shocked. Babies can die of stress if over-handled.

BEWARE OF

- sharp talons - eg hawks, owls
- being bitten - eg parrots, lizards
- sharp beaks stabbing your eye.

If necessary, throw a towel over the bird and then box.

Use this technique with possums to prevent clawing and bites.

DO NOT pick up BANDICOOTS by the tail.

DO NOT attempt to pick up SNAKES.

An adult wild roo can inflict considerable injury - treat with extreme caution and get help (veterinary if possible).

Oiled birds must be put in a sock, T-shirt or wrapped before placing in a box. Preening of oil on the feathers can kill.

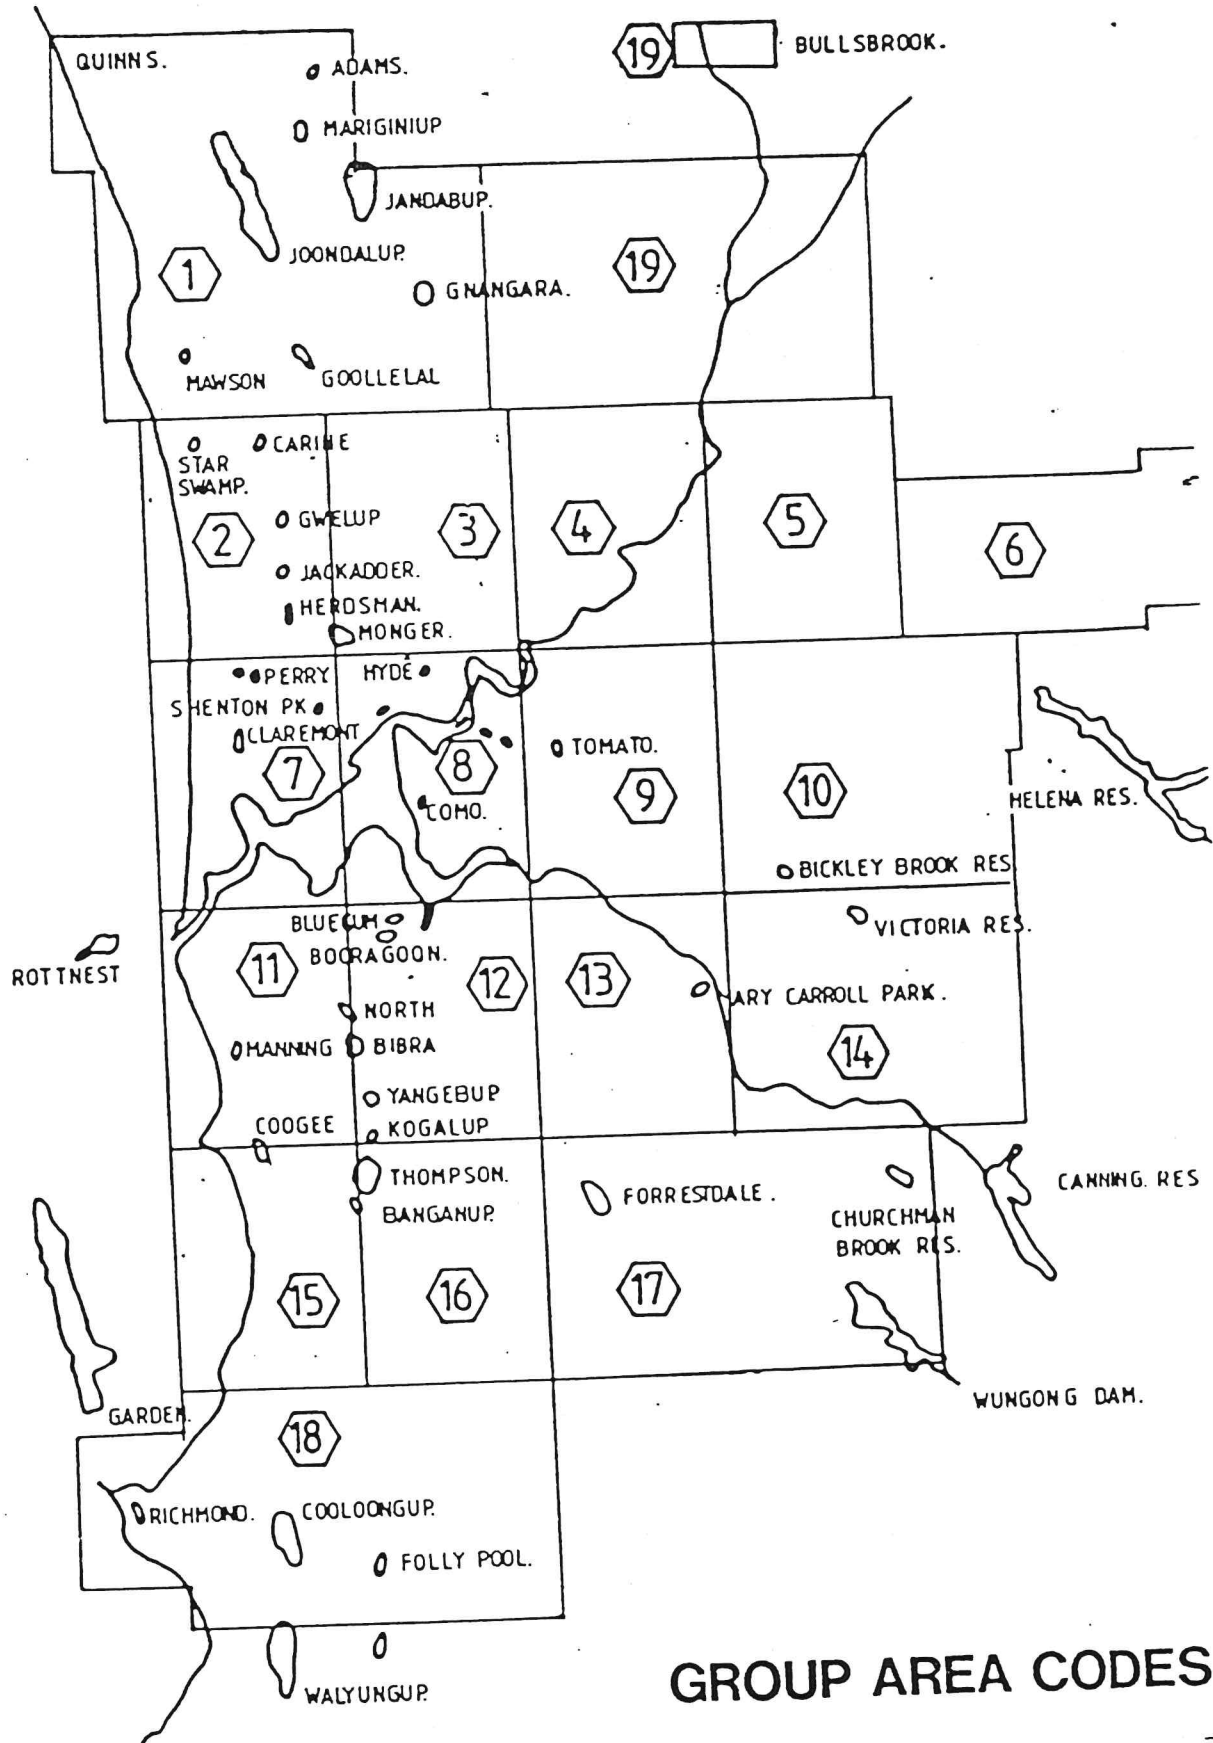

FINALLY - RING THE NUMBER YOU ARE GIVEN.
