Alive in the jarrah forest

The Forest Heritage Centre, located a comfortable ninety-minute drive south-east of Perth, is nestled in the historic jarrah forest of Dwellingup.

A unique leaf-shaped building made of rammed earth, the Forest Heritage Centre provides the visitor with an increased awareness of the jarrah forest through its interpretive displays, extensive forest trails, including an Aboriginal trail, timber getter's hut walk and a viewing platform reaching 11 metres into the jarrah canopy.

THE SCHOOL OF WOOD

The Forest Heritage Centre also houses the School of Wood, Western Australia's only specialist wood training facility, and is proud of its facilities in providing a centre of excellence for the fine wood industry. Students participate in a wide range of courses, like the two-year, full-time Diploma of Art - Furniture Design course. Visitors to the Centre have an opportunity to meet students at work, or participate in an extensive range of Creative Workshops. These workshops, inspired by the jarrah forest, are based on a timber theme and are usually conducted on weekends.

THE FINE WOOD GALLERY

The Fine Wood Gallery showcases some of the finest woodwork in Western Australia. You will discover work by outstanding craftspeople, who predominantly work with a wide variety of Western Australia's unique timbers. All products are crafted to the highest quality, ranging from small functional mementos to superb furniture pieces. Entry to the Gallery is free.

The Fine Wood Gallery also offers a personalised corporate giftware service.
