Beelu National Park

Beelu National Park (pronounced 'beel-u') is cradled in the tree-cloaked valleys of the Darling Range. It was previously known as Mundaring National Park but was renamed to recognise the Traditional Owners, the Beelu (meaning 'river') people. The Beelu people lived in an area generally bounded by the Helena, Swan and Canning Rivers and had winter camps in the Mundaring and Kalamunda hills. Beelu National Park is about 40 kilometres from Perth on Mundaring Weir Road.

A picnic in the forest

There are several scenic picnic areas along Mundaring Weir Road including South Ledge, North Ledge, Farrell Grove, The Dell, Gungin Gully, Pimelia and Grevillea Mycumbene. Toilets and wood barbecues are provided at many of these sites. You must provide your own wood for barbecues. They can only be lit outside the prohibited burning season which usually occurs between 1 December to 31 March.

Fred Jacoby Park

Fred Jacoby Park is an ideal place for a family day out and picnic. The park was originally a farm, then a golf course and today features rolling grassland, exotic trees, picnic tables and wood barbecues. It also contains one of the largest living English oak trees in Western Australia. A boardwalk enables visitors to get under the canopy of this 150-year-old heritage-listed tree.

A Golden View

The Golden View Lookout at South Ledge provides panoramic views over the Mundaring Weir and the Helena River Valley. The lookout is an 800m return walk from the South Ledge picnic area. The walk contains steps and small steep sections.

Camping

Tent camping is available at the Perth Hills Discovery Centre. Bookings are essential and can be made online at exploreparcs.dbca.wa.gov.au

Leave your pets at home

Dogs are permitted at Fred Jacoby Park. They must be on a leash at all times. Pets are not permitted in any other area of the national park. The sight, sounds and smells of dogs and other domestic animals cause native animals great stress. It may even cause them to leave their homes and their young unprotected.

Bushwalking safely

- Carry and drink 3-4 litres of water per person per day.
- Wear sturdy footwear, a hat and sunscreen.
- Tell someone responsible where you are going and let them know when you return.
- Bushwalking is not recommended in hot or other extreme weather conditions due to the risk of bushfires and the damaging impact of winter storms.
- Watch your step. Loose and uneven surfaces may be encountered.

Bushfires

Bushfires are dangerous and are common in Western Australia. They can start without warning throughout the year and can spread rapidly on hot, windy days. Avoid the risk of bushfire by planning your visit during mild weather conditions.

In case of bushfire call 000, and listen for Bushfire Alerts (warnings) on the local ABC radio station and check emergency.wa.gov.au.
