Roadside vegetation is vital for:

Habitat – for small native mammals, birds and reptiles, native plants of all sizes, fungi, insects...

Refuge – for threatened species and ecological communities

Corridors – for animals to move between patches of bush to look for food and mates

Landcare – windbreaks, sheltering stock, seed source and water use

Aesthetics & sense of place – different vegetation types help show the character of an area

Tourism – people travel to see WA's fantastic wildflowers

Linking our disconnected landscapes together

Protect your roadsides – they are too valuable to lose!
