MALACOLOGIST'S VISIT.

Sponsored by the Bishop Museum, of Honolulu, Hawaii, a marine biological expedition arrived in Perth last month. The leader was museum associate Mrs. Mary King, who was accompanied by Drs. Thomas Richert and C. M. Burgess, marine scientists from Honolulu, and by Mr. C. Weaver, also of Honolulu. The expedition has chartered the 81-ft. luxury motor cruiser, "Davena" for a two-month working cruise to north-west waters. The full co-operation of the Zoology Department of the University of Western Australia and the Western Australian Museum has been lent to the expedition. The party on board the "Davena" will include Dr. R. W. George, Curator of Invertebrates at the Museum and Mr. R. D. Royce, Senior Botanist of the Department of Agriculture. Mr. Barry Wilson, of the Zoology Department of the University, will join the expedition during the second month.

After a two-day shake-down cruise the "Davena" will leave early this month for Shark Bay, Carnarvon and Broome. She will dredge for shells at various points off the north-west coast.
