

Winter 2016

Welcome to the Department of Parks and Wildlife's WA Naturally publications newsletter.

It's hard to believe we are already halfway through 2016 which also means the 2017 calendar is now available. We hope that you will love the theme for the 2017 LANDSCOPE Calendar – 'Coastal Wonders of Western Australia'. As always it features stunning professional photographs and, by popular request, the spiral binding is back. Plus, with every calendar purchased there's the chance to win a fantastic wilderness camping prize.

In this issue we also have a new children's activity and cool facts book as well as a range of recreational guides to inspire you to get out and enjoy the State's parks and reserves. If you're looking for inspiration for inside the house, check out the latest new additions to the WA Naturally collection of illustrations and photographs.

All the best for a happy winter.

Geology of Western Australia's National Parks

This third edition of Geology of Western Australia's National Parks gives readers an appreciation of the global forces that formed WA's national parks and indeed the planet. The aim of this book is not simply to describe the geology, but to explain in plain terms how it came about and to encourage readers to look and ask “just how did that get there?”
